ABSTRACT

A remote-controlled car disabling system for stolen cars is comprised of a pager, an ignition-killing switch, and an emergency brake system utilizing either a bullet or double blade jack knife. The disabling system is activated when the owner dials the pager number and an additional secret code.